THE WEEK IN WALL STREET.

New York, May 25.—Henry Clews, in his weekly financial circular, says:

"Advices from Europe show that our loss of specie is not so entirely due to foreign financial and political exigencies as has been generally supposed on this side of the Atlantic. The Rothschilds have not withdrawn from the Russian loan syndicate, as reported, but have merely recommended to the czar's government a postponement until affairs in Paris have settled into a more normal condition; nor was that deferment influenced by any apprehensions that Russia contemplated preparations for early war, which is considered in the best informed quarters as outside of present probabilities, and which sentiment Lord Salisbury on Wednesday emphatically affirmed in his speech at Glasgow.

"So far, therefore, as war scare has contributed to any uneasiness on this side the Atlantic, it has been wholly baseless. Nor does the disturbance of confidence in Europe from financial causes appear, from later accounts, to have been so serious may as inferred from the earlier cable reports. After-affects of the events of last fall continue to appear first in one capital and then in another, with the result of causing fresh timidity; and the great banks under such circumstances seek to fortify themselves by liberal cash reserves; but the latest accounts from Europe show that there is no such grave apprehension of serious monetary or credit disturbances as has here been supposed to exist at the THE WEEK IN WALL STREET.

then in another, with the result of casing fresh timidity; and the great banks under such circumstances seek to fortify them-selves by liberal cash reserves; but the latest accounts from Europe show that there is no such grave apprehension of serious monetary or credit disturbances as has here been supposed to exist at the great centers.

"We do not need to cross the Atlantic to "We do not need to cross the Atlantic to find facts which go farther than has been supposed towards accounting for the recent extraordinary exports of gold. Important causes lie much nearer home, and are to be found mainly in the fact of the new tariff having induced an extraordinary importation of goods in anticipation of the operation of the higher rates of duty. For mouths before the McKinley bill was adopted, we had been importing at the rate of $5,000,000 per mouth in exercise of the previous year, and during the seven months from September 1st to April 1st the increase over a year previous was $44,000,000, while the increase in the exports during the same months was only $16,000,000. 006,000, while the increase in the exports during the same months was only $16,000, to 300. In addition to the adverse trade balance thus accruing, there was a large return of securities, consequent on the Baring and South American troubles, which has been variously estimated between forty and fifty millions. It is thus easily apparent how an adverse balance of over fifty millions may have arisen within the last few months. Under ordinary circumstances, this balance would have been in a large measure tided over by European engagements against our future crops, or by allowing foreign balances to remain here for use, or by purchase of our securities; but, in the present case, Europe needed hard cash to strengthen itself against its recent financial ill fortunes and to make remittances to Russia, and we have make remittances to Russia, and we have therefore been called upon to pay our for-eign indebtedness in gold.

"Our exports of gold would seem to have sufficed to settle this debt, and it therefore appears reasonable to expect that the drain will soon cease. The fact that the Bank of England did not advance its rate on Thursday carries an inference in that di-Thursday carries an inference in that diection. Russia appears to have satisfied her wants, and the gold she has imported is likely again to find its way into general circulation. The following statements made by Baron Bleichroder, the eminent Berlin banker, on the 21st inst. to a representative of the Associated Press, are worthy of special note in this connection:
The importation of gold into Russia has come to an end. Russia now has all the gold which it was necessary for her to have in order to repay the Dutch loans of 1790 and of 1850, and the £1,560,000 which 1790 and of 1850, and the £1,500,000 which she owes to the Bank of England on ac-count of the Barings You Americans will have all the gold which you have sent to Europe returned to you by November next at the latest. Your gold will go back in order to buy the harvest.

The general outlook in Europe is today much better than when I saw you last (May 15). The settlement of the Auglo-Portuguese disputs cannot but have a tranquilizing effect upon the European markets, besides having a good effect upon polities which I consider to be in a very ploy idle money. The question in this case that concerns us is, whether gold will flow back to New York in time to meet the usual fall demand for money to move the grain crops. Three months will clapse be-fore that demand will begin to be much felt. If during that time Europe recovers its equilibrium, it may be expected to invest the balances it has collected from us. If confidence does not recover to that extent, still necessity will compel abundant crops as will place within our reach the gold we have so freely parted with. In any event it is not to be overwith. In any event it is not to be over-looked that, since the specie exports set in, we have added twelve millions to our sil-ver currency and that, before the fall de-mand from the west becomes active, we shall have a further increase of fifteen millions of that form of currency. To say nothing, therefore, of the prospective ex-cess of the government's payments over its receipts, it is clear that we can reckon upon the loss of gold being largely com-pensated for by the increase in the paper reulation.

"It is no trifling warrant for confidence that we have been able to pay upon de-mand our entire floating indebtedness to Europe, without a symptom of distress anywhere and with so little effect upon the value of securities. Still, confidence should not be permitted to encourage recklessness; and prudent men will not allow themselves to be drawn into speculative operations by the extraordinary temptations presented by exhibitanting crop and railroad prospects, until it is quite clear that the outflow of gold has reached its end, it cannot at present be reached its end, it cannot at present be said that we are certainly clear. said that we are certainly clear of the danger of a money market that might compel realizing on stocks. It is encouraging, however, that the banks continue to make large gains of currency in their transactions with both the sub-treasury and the interior, the gains from the former source during the week having been $1,300,000 and from the latter about $5,250,000, a total of $6,350,000. The exports of sold for the subsection of the subsection o of gold for the week amount in round figures to $6,000,000."

LEAVENWORTH, Kan. May 25.—Tonight the police closed all the gambling houses in the city. In March Governor Humphrey changed the board of commissioners in this city, appoining a board that was in favor of licensing joints, gambling houses and other dens of vice. The governor dictated the appointments and the policy of the new board, and under his supervision all these places have been flourishing. Three extensive gambling houses have been running openly in the city, one by Kansas City partles, one by St. Joe men, and one by local lights.

For some weeks the Leavenworth Times has been making war on these gambling houses. Influenced by the statements of the Times, the ministers of the town today united in a demand upon the police com-missioners that the places be closed, in-timating that they would go to the gov-ernor and to the people of the state, if necessary. This had the desired effect and tonight the dens are closed.

C. Houk, congressman from the Second Tennessee district, died this morning at 7 o'clock. Yesterday afternoon he went to a drug store to get a prescription put up. The druggist compounded it for him and set it down in a glass near another containing a strong solution of arsenic, which Judge Houk took by mistake. Antidotes were administered promptly. By 10 o'clock last night he was so well that nothing was said about the circumstance except to a few friends. He slept through the night and died this morning suddenly. He had heart disease, and the excitement following the incident affected that organ and was the cause of his death.

ATCHISON, Kan., May 25.—Information from Muscotah, this county, says that Louis M. Briggs died at Battle Creek, Mich., at 3 o'clock Saturday morning. Mr. Briggs was a well known Kansas man.
